

MORE INFORMATION

Fully Outfitted hunts include: Accommodations that vary from hunt to hunt. Most of our camps are home settings with separate bedrooms, bathrooms and showers, beds with mattresses along with washer and dryer facilities. If necessary we will set up travel trailers that will provide most of the comforts of home. We provide all meals and transportation during the hunt. We also field dress, skin, cape, and deliver your elk to the nearest processing facility. The hunter is responsible for processing, wrapping, freezing and shipping (if necessary). Please let us know if you have special dietary requirements or medical consideration we should be aware of.

Licensing: The hunter is responsible for all state licensing fees and all hunts are conducted in strict compliance with the laws and regulations of the State of New Mexico.

Equipment: The hunter shall provide personal transportation to hunting headquarters, unless other arrangements have been agreed to by all parties. Hunter is responsible for a weapon, ammunition and all personal articles.

Hunters Responsibility: The hunter is solely responsible for his/her physical condition. Hunts take place in rough terrain at altitudes above 6,500 ft.! If the hunter has any doubts about his/her ability to withstand strenuous activity at high altitude, he/she should consult a doctor. The hunter represents that he/she is responsible for any and all hunting hazards.

All public and private land Elk hunts are conducted in quality units located in New Mexico within the Gila/Apache & Cibola National Forests. These units have been recognized for producing excellent trophies year after year.

Bow hunts take place the first three weeks of September, which allows the opportunity to hunt a majestic bull elk during the rut. Close encounters with just a string and razor is an unmatched adrenaline rush.

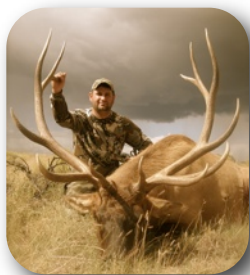

Rifle and muzzleloader hunts are spread throughout October and November. Early October mornings still buzz with bugling bulls. While the chance of calling still exists, spot and stalk methods of hunting become more effective.

Deadline to apply for NM draw is in March 28, 2011

1x1 Guide Service 6 day bow / 5 day rifle-muzzleloader $4250

2x1 Guide Service 6 day bow / 5 day rifle-muzzleloader $3000

* Private land hunt costs vary when available

New Mexico has some unique hunting opportunity for other big game species besides Elk and Deer. Hunts for Antelope, Bighorn Sheep, oryx and Varmints may also be arranged. Most of these species require a hunter to apply through the NM public draw system. The application deadline is in March 2011. Private land cow elk hunts are also available. Contact us today for more information and prices on these hunts.

Whether it is an elusive mule deer or that wary coues buck your searching for, Eric Kern Outfitters can help. We take only a few hunters each year on public and/or private land that has been managed for quality deer herds.

Muzzleloader seasons begin the last week of September or the last week of October depending on the unit. Because these are some of the first deer hunts of the year, a hunter has the opportunity at bucks that have yet to be pressured.

Rifle hunts occur in late October and continue through December. This time of year bucks are usually in bachelor groups and spend most of there time feeding and resting in preparation for the upcoming rut. During these hunts we let our eyes do the walking by taking advantage of quality optics.

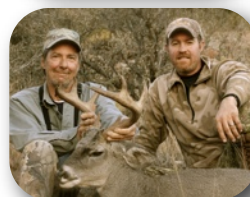

Bow hunts take place the first two weeks of January when the deer are in full rut. Changes in movement patterns of bucks along with the opportunity for calling/rattling rutting bucks make this hunt action packed.

Deadline to apply for NM draw is in March 28, 2011
